After interviewing drivers at construction sites, Mack engineers designed wide, properly positioned side-view mirrors on the right and left sides of the cab. From the cab, the operator has a clear view along the sides of the chassis to the rear.

THE MACK® CONQUEST.™ THE MASTER OF MIXERS.

With its rear-mounted engine, the Conquest is the finishing touch to Mack's ready-mix concrete product line. The Conquest is built on the strongest frame rail of any manufacturer, so it's up to the most severe of all applications. For added strength, Mack offers double frame rails.

The Mack Conquest mixer offers the best articulating suspension mounting in the industry. This means greater agility and maneuverability on the job site. It's made more reliable with a state-of-the-art dual steering gear system. For extended barrel and component life and better overall ride of the vehicle, the Mack air-ride system is available.

The Conquest mixer is a result of Mack's customer-focused product development strategy. We spent thousands of hours in the field, talking to the men and women whose jobs depend on trucks that are productive, efficient, maintenance-free and Mack-tough. With bigger payloads, one-person operation, faster performance, and operator convenience and comfort, the Mack Conquest meets those demands.

The Mack FDM series features a chute that effortlessly pivots around the platform on ball bearings.

The wide-mouth barrel is 48 inches in diameter, which makes loading easier.

We installed the ladder at a stairway-like angle, improving the climb to the spacious platform, which features a high-rise safety railing.

A maximum wheel cut angle offers a small turning radius for superior on-site maneuverability.

The rear-mounted engine of the Mack® Conquest™ is easily accessible for maintenance.
